What's Going on in the LLC this Month?

Our Summer (Research) Vacation

Summer is a traditionally slow time for the LLC, so we get to spend time catching up on long-term projects, like researching some of the international artifacts in the College Archive. The Archive holds many pieces like the one at left, which one of our Deerwood librarians just tentatively identified as a model of a Samoan canoe (possibly a ‘iatolima or a paopao). The items were originally purchased for use as classroom learning objects by faculty traveling abroad on behalf of the College, but in the decades since their accession most of the records have been lost. We're hoping to eventually find enough information about the artifacts’ provenance to put together a show featuring the items, but in the meantime the project helps give us a better idea of the scope of FSCJ's international experiences. For more updates on the results of our archive diving, be sure to follow us on Facebook or Instagram. If you have historical material you believe belongs in the Archive, please reach out to Jennifer Grey.

Closer to home, remember that our new discovery tool, Mango, is coming. Faculty should be aware that the change will affect some of their links to LLC content in Blackboard. Click here to see a specific list of what will and will not need to be updated, how you can make updates, and when the changes will need to be done.
What We're Reading This Month

Lisa at Deerwood is reading:

Peter J. Tomasi tells the well-researched story of the Brooklyn Bridge in a graphic novel format needing little explanatory text, creating dialogue that rings true and highlights the political and the personal triumphs and sorrows that unfolded during the bridge's 14-year construction period. Tomasi also includes ample description of the masterful engineering of the bridge - a process filled with failures and tragedies on the road to success. Sara DuVall's art is simple and appealing, allowing readers to focus on the expressions and emotions within individual episodes that tie this epic story together.

Diane at Kent is reading:

Around 1900, many Osage Indians were relocated to a desolate portion of Oklahoma. By the 1920’s oil was discovered on the land to which they had title. Some of the Osage became ridiculously rich, and murders began to occur - at least 24 throughout the '20s. Since Osage land fell under federal jurisdiction, the murders fell to a poorly managed office in the Justice Department. The ragtag office bumbled the Osage mystery for years; in the process, it became the FBI. After exhaustive research, Davis Grann has crafted a story that would stand alone as a thriller but is really parallel histories.

LLC Spotlight

Did you know?

Much like Netflix, the LLC's video database Films on Demand occasionally rotates its title list. While most deletions take place in June and December, new titles are added monthly. This month 745 titles were added and 464 titles were retired.
