Student Response Following Library Instruction Sessions

“She was great at providing me and my classmates with very helpful information that could not only help with my Humanities class but other classes as well.”

“Tons of resources are available that I had no idea about! I will definitely come here for help with research papers, grammar help, etc.”

“Thank you for your help and knowledge; I feel more comfortable tackling my research papers.”

LibGuide Monthly Page Views
January 2015 to Date

Research Companion Online Information Literacy
Research Companion information literacy instruction demonstrates a 25% increase in learning outcomes per module. Research Companion is an online, self-paced information literacy instruction program designed to meet Association of College and Research Libraries (ACRL) higher education standards. The program consists of short instructional videos and questions that instruct students in nine information literacy competencies such as “How to Form a Research Question” and “How to Avoid Plagiarism.”

Sept. 2016-Sept. 2017 Tutoring Sessions by Service (Top 5)

Online Tutoring Services
The LLC supports students enrolled in online courses and programs at FSCJ, by providing free, 24/7 access to online tutoring services through Smarthinking.

Smarthinking Online Tutoring Sessions September 2016-September 2017

Sessions* 15,050

Video Views* 32,771

Refers to videos, including transcripts, viewed by all users.

Refers to the number of sessions initiated by all users.

With the recent integration of the Accudemia student tutor tracking system, the LLC is able to easily correlate tutoring support with both student success and in-course retention. The data clearly show the positive impact of tutoring services on student achievement for Spring 2017.